

Abstract

This invention pertains to methods and compositions for the diagnosis and treatment of cardiovascular conditions. More specifically, the invention relates to diagnostics and therapeutics involving isolated molecules that can be used to inhibit cardiac apoptotic cell-death.